

FDITE33 MR and its clinical applications

(András Palkó)

Description:

The aim of the course is to provide basic knowledge about the operating principle of magnetic resonance tomography and its research/clinical applicability.

Main topics:

Physical and technical principles

Occupational safety regulations in high-intensity magnetic fields and in areas exposed to electromagnetic radiation

Device types

Contrast agents

Examination technique

Research opportunities

Clinical applicability